

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A pair of hairdressing scissors having two shear bodies connected to each other each having a blade at a front end and a finger grip at a back end, comprising:

5 a slit formed on each of the finger grips where the finger grip being configured by a shape and material to be flexible enough for plastic deformation to be widened or narrowed;

10 wherein both end portions of said slit are so configured that a side surface of each end portion passes one another.

2. A pair of hairdressing scissors as defined in Claim 1, wherein one end portion of the finger grip of a blade that is stationary is extended to form a finger brace.

15 3. A pair of hairdressing scissors as defined in Claim 1, wherein one end portion of each of the two finger grips is extended to form a finger brace.

20 4. A pair of hairdressing scissors as defined in either one of Claims 1-3, wherein the slit is established at the back end of the finger grip, and a side where a finger is inserted through the finger grip to hold the scissors in place is represented as a front side, an end portion of the finger grip at a side closer to a contact point between the two finger grips is positioned in the front side than other 25 end portion.